Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

PORLTAND, Feb. 2—Hop dealers who have been investigating conditions say that 13,000 bales will cover all of the 1905 hops now unsold in Oregon. This constitutes about one-eighth of the yield of last year, and at the rate these are going off, very few, if any, hops will be left in the hands of the growers by the first of June.

The working off of these old hops will have a good effect on the value of 1906 hops," a prominent dealer said this morning, "as there will be no left-overs to weaken the price of the new crop. Last year we had a good many bales of 1904 hops still in the warehouses of the State when the new crop appeared, and these old hops affected the price of the new crop. Growers have paid dearly for the lesson they learned then, and they are not inclined to hold their hops over this time, although prices offered are little if anything above the actual cost of production."

Smelt Are Plentiful.

Columbia River smelt are arriving freely and prices are down to a point that admits of little further reduction. The fish are scooped up into dip-nets by the boatload on the Cowlitz River, and are sent in 100-pound boxes by steamer daily.
